With the election heading into the final days of campaigning, the allegations are flying. Rick Martinez, News Director for StateGovernmentRadio.com, the North Carolina News Network, and NewsRadio 680 WPTF joins host Donna Martinez with the details of campaign finance impropriety allegations made by the state Democratic Party against the state Republican Party, the GOP's legal action over reports of problems with touch-screen voting machines, and the North Carolina NAACP's pointed criticism of GOP advertising about the Racial Justice Act.

Then Josh Ellis of StateGovernmentRadio.com joins Donna Martinez to discuss the latest early voting data, while Public Policy Polling's Tom Jensen analyzes his firm's latest poll data as the election nears. That's followed by a brief look at comments made by the three U.S. Senate candidates about the stimulus package, Social Security, and the Troubled Asset Relief Program (TARP).
