RALEIGH, (SGRToday.com) - Wondering about the details of the new North Carolina report for schools? A new Department of Public Instruction web video aims to address the law in detail. It is among the latest round of web highlights from the agency.

1. Global-Ready Designation Application/Guidance Documents on the Web

Materials that guide district and school leaders through the process of applying for the State Board of Education's Global Ready School Designation are available online at <http://www.ncpublicschools.org/globaled/actions/item4-2>. The Global-Ready Designation provides a process for schools and districts to prepare students for living, working and contributing to an interconnected world.

2. Webinar/Presentation for RttT Closeout Activities now Online

A webinar and presentation highlighting program closeout activities and timelines for the Race to the Top (RttT) grant are available online at <http://www.ncpublicschools.org/rttt/webinars/>. The webinar and presentation apply to school districts and charter schools approved for the No-Cost Extension to their RttT grant.

3. New Instructional Video on the Web for NC School Report Card

Check out the latest addition to our collection of instructional resources for the NC School Report Card - How do I Find and Compare Data? - <http://www.ncpublicschools.org/src/resources/>. The short video shows you how to find and compare data in the NC School Report Card for schools, districts and the state. Resources to help you acclimate and navigate the redesigned NC School Report Cards website are added regularly. Check back often to see what's new.

4. Barnes Elementary School Teacher Featured in Home Base "Teacher Spotlight"

The latest Teacher Spotlight features Monica Thompson from Barnes Elementary School in Wilson County. Barnes shares how she uses the assessment items from Schoolnet to conduct pretests that help her identify focus areas for instruction. To view this and other Teacher Spotlight videos, please visit <http://www.ncpublicschools.org/homebase/teacher-spotlight/>. If you're a classroom teacher with an innovative SchoolNet instructional strategy that you would like to share, send an email to home_base_ready@dpi.nc.gov.
