RALEIGH, (SGRToday.com) - The 2015 READY Accountability results will be released at the State Board of Education's Sept. 2 meeting.

The highly anticipated data will provide a window into student academic progress and school performance in 2014-15.

The data will include student performance on end-of-grade and end-of-course assessments based on five achievement levels, overall student proficiency on end-of-grade and end-of-course assessments, academic growth, School Performance Grades, and four- and five-year cohort graduation rates.

State officials will be available for media interviews Immediately following the release.
