RALEIGH, (SGRToday.com) - The commission that appoints local emergency planning committees has three new members, all of whom work in government in the Triangle and an adjacent county.

Wake County officials Regina Godettee-Crawford and Rick McIntyre received the appointment, as did Gregory Grayson of Alamance County. Godettee-Crawford is the chief of the State Office of Emergency Medical Services. She is a reappointment to the commission.

McIntyre is the senior deputy insurance commissioner and assistant state fire marshal.

Grayson is the chief of the Greensboro Fire Department.
