

N.C. Coastal Resources Commission Science Panel To Discuss Updating Sea-Level Rise Report

By Administrator

Tuesday, 15 July 2014 10:44 - Last Updated Tuesday, 15 July 2014 10:45

RALEIGH, (SGRToday.com) - The N.C. Coastal Resources Commission's Science Panel will meet July 21 in New Bern to discuss the study of inlet hazard areas and an update of the panel's 2010 sea-level rise study report.

The panel will meet at the Craven County Cooperative Extension office. The meeting is open to the public.

The science panel is composed of coastal engineers and geologists.