

Rockingham County To Host Cyberterrorism Defense Initiative Training

By Administrator

Friday, 16 October 2015 06:07 -

RALEIGH, (SGRToday.com) - Critical infrastructure technical personnel from the public and private sectors are invited to attend cyberterrorism training next week, hosted by Rockingham County.

The course is described as basic to intermediate level, with experience of two years in the security field and preferably experience as a system or network administrator.

The training will be held at the Rockingham County Emergency Operations Center in Reidsville.

There is no charge for the classes, which are provided by the University of Arkansas Criminal Justice Institute.

More information is available at <http://www.co.rockingham.nc.us/docview.aspx?docid=42603>