RALEIGH, (SGRToday.com) - The North Carolina Association of County Commissioners will host spring district meetings in six counties beginning in late March.

The meetings are “an opportunity to learn about the latest legislative developments in Raleigh, to share information from their conversations with legislators, to network with officials from other counties, and to learn about the latest NCACC programs and services that benefit counties,” according to a web posting by the organization.

Meetings begin March 31 in Granville County, followed by:

- April 6, Washington County
- April 7, Cabarrus County
- April 13, Haywood County
- April 14, Surry County
- April 20, Duplin County

Registration information can be found at ncaccevents.org.
