

Steve Rowlan To Chair N.C. Environmental Management Commission

By Administrator

Thursday, 28 January 2016 06:30 -

RALEIGH, (SGRToday.com) - Nucor engineer Steve Rowlan has been appointed chairman of the commission that makes rules for North Carolina's air and water resources.

Rowlan is a licensed civil engineer and the Director of Environmental Affairs at Charlotte-based Nucor, a steel and steel products company.

Rowlan succeeds Gerard Carroll on the 15-member Environmental Management Commission.

The group is changing its leadership rules. The chairmanship will now rotate each year.