RALEIGH, (SGRToday.com) - Forty percent of likely U.S. voters have told pollsters for Rasmussen that they would vote for the Democrat in their district's congressional race if they had to make a choice today.

Thirty-eight percent said they would vote for the Republican candidate. The two-point Democratic lead represents the week ending June 22.

The results were the same the week before.

So far in 2014, Republican support has ranged from 35 percent to 41 percent.

All seats in Congress are up for grabs in the November general election.

Republicans currently control the U.S. House of Representatives, while Democrats control the U.S. Senate.
