RALEIGH, (SGRToday.com) - The Democratic half of North Carolina's Woodhouse political brothers will take the helm of "Correct the Record," a pro-Hillary Clinton super PAC, according to the New York Times.

Brad Woodhouse formerly ran American Bridge and was a spokesman for the Democratic National Committee.

The Times reports the group was started by Clinton supporter David Brock. The re-engineered group will be able to coordinate with the Clinton campaign.

Brad's brother, Dallas, is a conservative activist in North Carolina. The brothers have become TV celebrities who appear on national cable shows. Their sparring was showcased last year on C-SPAN when their mother, Joyce, called in to tell her sons to stop fighting.
