A Raleigh realtor wants to talk to you if you're planning to leave the country if Donald Trump wins the presidential election. "If TRUMP is elected president, are you leaving the country?" Will Wofford of Berkshire Hathaway HomeService wrote on a mailer.

Wofford

told the News and Observer says he got the idea from hearing people say they'd have to move if Trump gets elected. He hoped the mailer – "really a joke" – would draw the attention of recipients who might otherwise throw a real-estate ad in the trash.

"It's producing pretty good results," told the Raleigh paper. "I've had people put this on Facebook and email me."
